

Meriden

21. 1. 91.

My dear Macmillan,

I had no expectation that E. M. May, wd. care for Justinian, but Hojath (who cooperates in all ~~the~~ publishing) thought it

~~would~~ might. I take it regularly to train the children in art.

The J. H. S. will never do anything for Atria Minor illustration so long as the M. Comm. Editor remain as they are. It is a scandal to hear how they have treated Bent. If they refused his paper

I could understand it, for he is not a scholar & makes some serious faults. But the things he found at Olba are of high interest, & illustrations are just what would carry ~~off~~ ^{through with} ~~the~~ ^{necess} a rough paper. The fact is that a number of us are terrified to say or do anything that the Germans have not said or done; & almost all English arch! enterprise at present is being wasted.

Still my copies have not come from R. G. S.

and all my friends, Reliance to have to wait. It is most annoying; but when you see the printing with worn-out type & no margin, you will be horrified.

I see today that Lord Rutherford Clark & Low are nominated, & the board of Electors are now complete.
I hope to send my testimony to you next week.

I fear we shall have to publish "Justinian" in America, where the Journals are much more enterprising than J. H. S.

North has been tempting me to return this summer to Cappadocia, & I have yielded. I was so worn out last August that I vowed I wd. never make a long journey again.

Yrs always truly
Wm Ramsay
