If I sent a few old books by you could you be troubled to sell for the object named in the "Yorkshire Post", viz; the excavations in Brele?

Here in the Country there is little or no good chance of sale, - of course even in town it may mean a sorry contribution, but I could pay carriage to you. It seems a most deserving claim, but just now there are so many other pressing needs! - the "arts" have to stand aside for the "hearts" sympathies with sufferings & horrors through the present warfare.

I trust some one may be able to, at any rate come forward & prevent any ruinous spoliation of such a treasure. - mine for our Classical period.

Yours faithfully
Emma Barber.
